DETAILED ACTION

1. Applicant's cooperation is requested in correcting any errors of which applicant may become aware in the specification.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

3. Claims 1 and 2 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Miyakoshi (the GB 2005921, cited by Applicant).

Regarding claim 1, the Miyakoshi reference teaches in figure 11-14 an antenna coil characterized by comprising: a core 64 formed by shaping a magnetic material into a bar-like configuration; a bobbin 67,68 having a through-hole into which the core is to be inserted; a connection section fixed to the bobbin so as to extend in a length direction of core from the bobbin, with the core inserted into the through-hole; a winding which is wound around the bobbin and whose ends are connected to the connection section; and a connector terminal 53 which is provided at a certain position in the length direction of the core, which fixes the connection section in position, and which determines a position of the winding in the length direction of the core.

Regarding claim 2, wherein the connector terminal is provided on a connector main body 58,59 having another through-hole into which the core is to be inserted.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. Claim 6 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Miyakoshi (cited above) in view of Duncan et al (the US Patent No. 6,052,097).

Regarding claim 6, the Miyakoshi reference teaches every feature of the claimed invention, excluding a holder having an accommodating portion formed by a holder main body and a side surface portion provided upright on the holder main body, with the accommodating portion accommodating the antenna coil; and a cover for hermetically sealing the accommodating portion.

The Duncan et al reference teaches in figure 7A a holder 34 having an accommodating portion formed by a holder main body and a side surface portion provided upright on the holder main body, with the accommodating portion accommodating the antenna coil 33; and a cover 54 for hermetically sealing the accommodating portion in order to protect the antenna coil.

Since one of ordinary skill in the art would recognize the benefit of protecting the antenna, it would have been obvious to provide Miyakoshi with a holder having an accommodating portion formed by a holder main body and a side surface portion provided upright on the holder main body, with the accommodating portion accommodating the antenna coil; and a cover for hermetically sealing the accommodating portion as taught by Duncan et al.

Allowable Subject Matter

6. Claims 3-5 and 7-8 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

7. The following is a statement of reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter: none of the cited discloses that wherein: the connection section is formed of a rigid material; a second through-hole is formed in the connector main body so as to extend along the other through-hole;--and~ the connection section is being inserted into the second through-hole; or wherein: a capacitor is provided on the connector main body; and wherein the connector terminal is connected to the capacitor; or wherein the connection section has two conductive rigid members; one end of the winding is connected to one rigid member of the connection section; another end of the winding is connected to another rigid member of the connection section; the connector terminal has two conductive joint portions; one joint portion of the connector terminal fixes in position the rigid member of the connection section to which the one end of the winding is connected; and another joint portion of the connector terminal fixes in position the rigid member of the connection section to which the another end of the winding is connected; or wherein the connector terminal of the antenna coil is provided on a connector main body having another through-hole into which the core is to be inserted; and the side surface portion and the connector main body of the antenna coil respectively have engagement portions engaged with each other and determining a position of the connector main body in a length direction of the core.
